What did Abraham Lincoln do Abraham Lincoln became the United States' 16th President in 1861, issuing the Emancipation Proclam ation that declared forever free those slaves within the Confederacy in 1863. He warned the South in his Inaugural Address, thought secession illegal, and was willing to use force to defend Federa l law and the Union. He built the Republican Party into a strong national organization and rallied most of the northern Democrats to the Union cause.
